

Solutionary strengthens its reputation for high quality, cost effective security architecture reviews and regulatory compliance assessments by incorporating Athena Security products

Customers will receive value added reports to mature and harden firewall infrastructure against security risks

Thursday, July 30 2009 -- Chicago IL -- Solutionary, a leading provider of managed and monitored security and compliance services, has chosen Athena Security, for its accurate and comprehensive security analytics, to support its security consulting services team on security architecture and regulatory compliance engagements. Solutionary's certified consultants average ten years of experience and always maintain an approach to offer actionable, real-world risk mitigation advice, not just a checkbox assessment. "The addition of Athena Security to the Solutionary consultant's toolkit is a demonstration of how the company differentiates its services," says Anjali Gurnani, VP of Business Development for Athena Security. "Our products analyze the design risks in firewalls that are impossible to find manually. Matched with Solutionary's experience, customers have a high degree of confidence that their trusted advisor is well-armed to help mitigate risks that others would simply overlook."

Athena Security was selected for use in the Solutionary toolkit following a comprehensive evaluation. Solutionary was able to identify a wide range of compliance violations and present operational detail to support their findings in a very clear and actionable format to save time and increase delivery efficiencies.

About Athena Security

Athena Security offers products to reduce the reliance on securing the network infrastructure by testing. With a comprehensive focus on firewall behavior through configuration data, Athena uncovers all possible firewall design risks and errors so that they can be actively removed and mitigated. Over 300 companies are using FirePAC to audit and mature their firewalls for meeting security best practices and complying with PCI requirements. www.athenasecurity.net

About Solutionary

Solutionary delivers exceptional information security and excellent customer service for clients seeking to improve data security and address compliance requirements. Organizations world-wide depend on Solutionary's managed security platform, information security and compliance expertise, custom service delivery and strong commitment to solving security challenges and business issues. www.solutionary.com

###

Media Contact:
Anjali Gurnani
Athena Security
Phone: 630-629-0600 x21
agurnani@athenasecurity.net